the charred wreckage of the Roman Catholic buildings.

Reports from the provinces indicated the excitement was subsiding there. Seville was quiet, there were no disorders in Toledo, and Barcelona, after a hotbed of political disturbances, was calm.

Madrid, May 12.—Jeering, cheering mobs which swept police, city guards and soldiers aside, attacked and burned churches and church buildings in the cities of Spain as the month-old Republican Government strove with all its resources to restore order.

Five churches and convents were burned before dawn today in Seville. Occupants of convents fled to houses of friends and relatives for shelter. Martial law was declared and troops were placed on the streets in an effort to control the throngs, which ranged the city, destroying monuments which marked the centuries of Roman Catholicism in Spain.

Similar conditions prevailed in Malaga, where two churches and church buildings were burned during the night, at Cadiz, where four churches and convents were burned, and at Alcala, where four churches and convents were partly destroyed by fire and looting. Mobs at Saragosa, Cordova and Bilbao attacked and wrecked church buildings in those cities, but did not burn them.

JOE INFORMED OF UNEMPLOYMENT IN NANAIMO AREA

Strong Delegation Tells Finance Minister City Unable to Cope With Situation

Special to The Times

Nanaimo, May 12.—A delegation consisting of three members of the city council, George S. Pearson and the president of the board of trade, met Hon. J. W. Jones and placed before the Finance Minister the depressed state of affairs in the city owing to the loss of coal trade. The delegation said the city could no longer cope with the situation. Twenty-five per cent men employed on relief work were rate-payers and not liable to pay taxes and the government it was urged, would have to take a hand.

Mr. Jones said he would place the matter before the cabinet unemployment committee, but could make no definite promise.

Mr. Jones addressed a fair-sized meeting yesterday evening dealing with the unemployment problem. The speaker dealt at length with the depression caused by the loss of coal trade, increased cost of pensions and the special relief for the unemployed.

Questions were asked with reference to the one per cent tax.

NOT PIPE DREAM

Michael Luckovich, U.P.A. Vegreville, supports the resolution. The peace movement is not a "pipe dream," he told the House. It was a reality. "What great problem has the world solved?" asked Mr. Luckovich. "After preparing the world a better or happier place to live in? Who won the war?" He defied any member of the House to answer these questions.

He supported the resolution, but he doubted if it went far enough. Mr. Luckovich believed the time to inaugurate the idea of peace was at hand. It was best to start with peace propaganda from the bottom up. It was the only method which promised lasting results.

Mr. Luckovich proposed an amendment to the resolution, which would provide the amount set aside for peace should be paid as a grant to the provinces for the purpose of establishing professorships and scholarships in different parts of the country.

The amendment was ruled out by the Speaker on the ground it was not properly drawn.

CANADIAN HISTORY

If any money were to be spent for training tending to world peace more attention should be paid to the teaching of Canadian history, said J. P. Poultier, Liberal, Temiscouata, Que. He supported the resolution. Canadian history, he went on, concerned much more than the people of the country with a desire for international peace.

It is not a very peaceful history," said Mr. Poultier, "but it is one in which we see very few riots except the Quebec riots, which were justified."

LAVERGNE'S VIEWS

There was an old adage, declared Armand Lavergne, that if you want to have peace, prepare for war. He would be glad to support the resolution if he could see the question of the Canadian film industry in the foreground of the motion picture industry.

Mr. Lavergne was sure that if Canada did away with its army and navy and police, the gesture would be understood by the other nations of the world.

Russia was preparing for war, preparing to force its theories on other nations by arms, said Mr. Lavergne. It was possible to believe that after 5,000 or 6,000 years of human history, war would disappear. It would not vanish until the world accepted the teachings of the Master, and in 2,000 years those teachings were still unaccepted.

The cadet movement found a champion in Mr. Lavergne, who urged the training of Canadian youth for military service. Young men of Canada should be taught discipline and respect for authority, he declared. A great change had taken place in the country that country had adopted compulsory military service, and the youth of the Commonwealth were being built up in a fashion not previously possible.

GRANTS FOR CADETS

From T. M. Cayley, Liberal, South Oxford, Ont., came the question as to whether grants for cadet training were not in the same category as the grants for the training of the British Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Cadet grants, said Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, were provided under estimates for the National Defence Department, which had jurisdiction through provisions of the British North America Act giving to the Dominion Government the duty of dealing with matters involving the defence of Canada. Further, the money was turned over to the provinces to be expended.

The subject of world peace was one in which all Canadians should be interested, said Mr. Guthrie. Mr. MacPhail deserved great credit for bringing the matter to the attention of the House, but his resolution was more "academic than practical."

He thought his intention was to get the matter discussed rather than secure the adoption of the resolution in the way it was presented.

It proposed legislation which would contravene both the letter and the spirit of the British North America Act, for the duty of education under the act was exclusively assigned to the provinces.

It was true, Mr. Guthrie said, that the constitution had been circumvented in the past. Grants had been made by the dominion for unemployment, technical education and highways, all provincial matters, but in all these cases the grants had been made to the provinces themselves and the provincial governments had been given complete control of the money. The resolution would have to be considerably amended if this was to be done.

APPROVED BY CANADA

The implication in Miss MacPhail's resolution, the Minister of Justice proceeded, was that Canada was "lagging behind" other countries in promotion of ideals of peace. The fact was that this country stood in the forefront on this question. Canada had been among the first to subscribe to the Treaty of Versailles, the covenant of the League of Nations, the World Court and the optional clause.

MORE CAN BE DONE

During her address, Miss MacPhail said her similar resolution last year had been referred to the committee on international and industrial relations, which body, having heard a number of witnesses, submitted a report to the House recommending the establishment of an international library in Ottawa.

She said Dr. O. D. Skelton, Under-Secretary of State for External Affairs, had admitted before the committee last year that much more could be done than had been done the past year to students for participation in international affairs.

Closing the debate, Miss MacPhail said the government had a number of different ways of getting out of a difficulty than the present administration, and she thought the former Minister of Justice had been "practical" in doing so better than the present incumbent of that office (Mr. Guthrie). She thought her resolution should at least be referred to a committee.

Mr. Guthrie rose to say the government had no objection.

C. R. McIntosh, Liberal, North Vancouver, B.C., was on his feet to speak in support of the resolution.

He said the resolution was a good one and he hoped it would be passed.

JULIAN IS NOT PERMITTED TO SELL HOLDINGS

Oklahoma City, Okla., May 12.—C. C. Julian was in charge of the C. C. Julian Oil and Royalties Company again today, but under a court order restraining him temporarily, at least, from disposing of any of its holdings. The district court vacated an order appointing a receiver for the company. A final hearing was set for May 18. The receivership was sought by Marjorie Bennett, Hollywood. Attorneys for Julian said Miss Bennett held only six shares with a total value of only $20.

He represented also a group of stockholders with shares worth more than $50,000.

"These are the persons I am trying to save from Julian, who is dissipating the property," he added. "His records show one misappropriation and dissipation after another. We will prove that out of the $5,000,000 collected $1,000,000 was appropriated to his personal use."

MRS. KIPP OF CHILLIWACK DIES

Chilliwack, B.C., May 12.—On Sunday, the day given over by thousands of people to the observance of Mothers' Day, Chilliwack's "mother," Mrs. Isaac Kipp, passed peacefully away at her home on Wellington Avenue, following a short illness.

Ninety-one last August, Mrs. Kipp was the first white woman to come to the Chilliwack Valley. In March of this year, while recalling her sixty-six years here, living on the same homestead all the while, she spoke as of yesterday of her arrival in New Westminster, of her marriage to Mr. Kipp, Rev. Ebenezer Robson, officiating, and of her trip to Chilliwack by the steamer Onward.

Her passing, just as the evening bells had finished ringing on the church which had its beginning in her home in 1865, leaves a memory rare and beautiful, a character loved by all who knew her. Mr. Kipp predeceased his wife a few years ago. Of a family of nine children there are left five sons and two daughters, E. A. Kipp, Frank Kipp, Fred Kipp, Chilliwack; Will Kipp, Vancouver; Arthur in the north. Mrs. William Knight, the first white child born in the Chilliwack Valley, and Mrs. O. Ed Chadeay, Chilliwack. There are twenty-four grandchildren and thirty great-grandchildren.

MANUFACTURERS HEAR BENNETT ON FARMING

Premier, Addressing Association at Montreal Banquet, Speaks of Problems

Canadian Press
Montreal, May 12.—"I have endeavored, said Premier Bennett in a speech here yesterday evening, "to make it clear to my fellow citizens west of the Great Lakes and beyond the Rockies that there are no people who have a better appreciation of the problems of the west than the manufacturers of the east because if the west has no purchasing power, up go the shutters and down come the factories."

He had found the manufacturers concerned with the problems of the west, he said.

Mr. Bennett was addressing the annual banquet of the Quebec division and Montreal branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. Manufacturers in every branch of industry from Atlantic to the Pacific, the presidents of the two great railway systems, financiers and business men in varied walks of life heard his utterances.

UPWARD SWING

Giving expression to his belief that there were evidences that the "dead level" of depression had been reached, and that the movement from now on will be upward, the Prime Minister asked for a "clear conception of the situation west of the Great Lakes." With this appeal, however, he declared his disagreement with any suggestions that captains of industry in the east lay awake at night "to see how they could enslave the unwary farmers of the west."

POOR CROPS

Under the circumstances seen at present, Premier Bennett asked for an understanding that in some parts there had been poor crops and there had been low prices, "for which you were not to blame. Some people had been trying to create the belief you were to blame, but you were not."

"Realizing these things," the Prime Minister said, "we, as Canadians, should forget the aspects that are purely provincial and remember only this great heritage and the opportunities that are ours. I ask you, as no doubt you have been asked before, and have responded, to realize that a tolerant view of an extreme situation is desirable and that the day will come when the program that has been interrupted will continue, and that this country, with growing revenues and a contented people, will go forward to the great duty that rests upon it."

CONVERSION LOAN

"To-day we asked the Canadian people to exchange the securities which they had received for the money advanced to the government several years ago, for newer securities at a lower rate of interest in order that they may continue to be investors in the Dominion of Canada. The magnificent response they have made indicates that the Canadians of all classes, regardless of the provinces in which they live, are anxious to do what they can to assist in the development of this country, and to remove from the horizon what every finance minister must look at with alarm, namely, the matter of the vast millions of dollars of the securities maturing at an early date."

Revolutionary Plot In Mexico Nipped

Mexico City, May 12.—Gen. Mirjales Palencia said an armed movement had been planned, but that police discovered the plot in time. Besides Cabrera, he said a number of well-known politicians and former army officers were involved. The plotters, he said, had held a number of meetings in a private home here and Cabrera had made frequent trips lately to Puebla and other places believed to have been connected with the plot, which had ramifications in various states.

MERCHANTS FACE MORE QUIZZING FROM OFFICIALS

Canadian Press

Ottawa, May 12.—First Dominion-wide gathering of data covering Canadian wholesalers, retailers and service establishments will be undertaken this year. In response to a general demand for a comprehensive picture of commodity distribution in Canada, the Minister of Trade and Commerce, Hon. H. H. Stevens, has announced that the Dominion Bureau of Statistics would undertake a census of merchandising and service establishments. Distribution, he stated, unlike production and many other fields of statistical effort, has not been thoroughly served. Numerous production problems have been aided in solution by the provision of adequate statistics. The most pressing business problems of to-day exist in the field of distribution and it is anticipated that with the immense and diverse amount of data which will be extended to retailers, wholesalers, publishers, manufacturers and advertisers, and in the end the consumer, public to which the efforts of all are directed will be the greatest beneficiary.

General census enumerators will be about to provide a complete list of all business houses engaged in merchandising and service functions, and the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has complete and specific plans for collection of business data direct from the valuable data thus obtained.

Enumerators will in the first instance record the name, address and nature of business, and also by type of organization (independent stores, chain stores, etc.). Special schedules cover automobile merchandising and hotels.

A copy of the report would be furnished to the master or owner, and if it should declare the seaman unfit for his duties, he would not be employed.

CHAMBER GOES EASY ON TARIFFS, DEBTS, RUSSIA

Canadian Press
Washington, D.C., May 12.—One thousand delegates of industry and kings of finance have departed from Washington to the four corners of the earth. Observers here believe the major results of the congress in the International Chamber of Commerce is discovered in the words of Kenkichi Kagami, chief of the Japanese delegation.

"The chamber has not come to any definite policies for meeting the world crisis, but everybody knows and understands the importance of the situation and we are all in the same boat." At its final meeting, the chamber passed a general resolution recommending an examination of the effects of international obligations on trade, if warranted, by changed economic conditions and removal of all unjustifiable tariff restrictions. The chamber also recommended an international conference on silver, approved international conferences looking toward the solution of agricultural problems and urged futures markets should use every endeavor to remain free from governmental interference.

Entrances of the Communist trader, the United Socialist Soviet Republics, into the individualistic markets of the world was not directly mentioned, although emphasis was laid upon protection of individual rights throughout the congress. Mildness of the chamber's pronouncements on war debts reparations and tariffs is largely accounted for by the fact the meeting was held in Washington and the attitude of the United States Government was considered. The inclusion of the disarmament in the general resolution was a gesture of deference to President Hoover who confined his remarks in the opening of the congress to this question, and to a section of the United States delegation.

RADIUM ORES ARE TESTED

Ottawa, May 12.—The Department of Mines had completed facilities for determining the radium content of any ore samples that might be submitted for examination and for making concentration tests on radium ore. Hon. Wesley A. Gordon, Minister of Mines, informed Hon. Peter Newman, Liberal, Kenora-Bainy River, in the Commons yesterday afternoon. The department had already examined samples from Ontario and the Northwest Territories. Until such time as there was no longer a commercial interest proved, the minister's answer said, it was not considered necessary to ensure the control within Canada of radium deposits so as to ensure supplies of radium for hospitals at reasonable prices.

Couple Rescued By Steamship Crew

Canadian Press
Vancouver, May 12.—Captain J. Boden, master of the Union Steamship Company's steamer Lady Cynthia, and his crew did a bit of life saving on Sunday off Point Atkinson, where a man and a woman were struggling in the cold waves. Passengers on the vessel drew the attention of the captain to the pair and he promptly turned the ship to the rescue.

A brother and sister residing on Vancouver Island were proceeding home in the brother's launch when the latter fell overboard while her brother was in the engine room. He went to his assistance in the dingy but it upset. The woman managed to keep afloat with the aid of a drifting log while her brother struggled to push the overturned dingy to her.

They were taken from the water by the crew of the Cynthia and were wrapped in wet blankets. They were put back on the launch to continue their interrupted journey and the Lady Cynthia proceeded.

NEW SHIPPING ACT IS URGED FOR CANADA

MacInnis, South Vancouver, Brings Bill Before Commons

Canadian Press

Ottawa, May 12.—The present Canada Shipping Act was out of harmony with modern industrial conditions, Angus MacInnis, Labor, Vancouver South, told the Commons yesterday afternoon, explaining an amendment he proposed to that statute. The bill was given first reading.

The amendment was designed to bring the act more up to date, he said. It provided for physical examination of seamen, more efficient inspection of water and provisions rationed to the crews, and for certain regulations governing hours of work and compensation to seamen in the event of injury. The bill would also restrict coastal trading in Canadian waters to vessels of Canadian registry.

Premier Bennett interposed to say the amendment might conflict with the provisions of the Statute of Westminster.

To A. W. Neil, Independent, Comox-Alberni, who declared the act be in need of complete revision, Mr. Bennett said that arising out of the operation of the Statute of Westminster, the Canada Shipping Act and a number of other statutes would need to be revised.

EXAMINATION BY PHYSICIAN

The MacInnis bill sets forth that "any seaman applying for employment in any Canadian sea-going ship shall be examined by the medical officer of the port or other qualified physician before such ship is granted clearance, and such medical officer or physician shall give to the shipping master a report under his hand stating whether the seaman is in a fit state for duty at sea."

A copy of the report would be furnished to the master or owner, and if it should declare the seaman unfit for his duties, he would not be employed.

FOOD AND WATER

It is further set forth that all provisions and water intended for the use of the crew "shall be inspected either on board ship or before shipment, and if on such inspection the provisions and water are found to be in any respect deficient in quality, the ship shall be detained until the defects are remedied."

The master of every ship would be required to furnish provisions to the crew in accordance with the scale on that prescribed by the first schedule of the Merchant Shipping Act of 1906. The working hours for seamen on all Canadian sea-going ships shall not exceed eight hours per day, except in cases of emergency," reads another clause in the MacInnis amendment.

COMPENSATION

It is also provided that the master or owner of a ship shall compensate a seaman for injury in accordance with the scale paid under the Workmen's Compensation Act of the province in which the ship is registered. "No ship other than a ship duly registered in Canada shall engage in or take part in the coasting trade of Canada or carry goods or passengers from one port or place in Canada to another port or place in Canada," reads the amendment. "This provision shall apply to all ships operating on the coast, inland waters and minor waters of Canada."

THEY SEE THE DANGER

IF THE WORLD'S BUSINESS WERE TO be regulated by specifics contained in resolutions, it would have a pretty mess on its hands. Resolutions are none the less important, for they reflect the cross currents of public opinion, and governments can not ignore public opinion indefinitely. With this in mind, special significance attaches to the resolution passed by the International Chamber of Commerce at its final meeting in Washington last Saturday, which calls for the intensification of efforts by the world powers for armament reduction, as urged by President Hoover; and the removal of all trade barriers, including discriminatory tariffs. Another resolution, incidentally, urges the nations to call an international conference to consider the stabilization of silver.

These resolutions unquestionably will carry weight in the chancelleries of the world because they reflect the views of industrialists and economists of no less than thirty-six nations, all of which were represented at this important gathering. It was not surprising that a body of international businessmen, at this stage of the world's progress, should advocate the removal of all trade barriers. It is obviously apparent to them, if not to the average individual, that the fiscal policies which many of the nations have pursued in the last few years not only are affecting each country adversely but also are ruining the business of the world as a whole. As Sir George Paish stated in Toronto the other day, universal bankruptcy will follow the economic suicide of Europe unless conditions are speedily changed.

In spite of all the warnings politicians and statesmen have received in recent years—Sir George Paish himself predicted the present economic recession—there still remains a school of thought which is trying to win converts to high protection, to the belief that a country can sell as much as it likes without requiring to buy in return. And it is astonishing how many seem to think they can brush aside an inexorable economic law with a majestic wave of the hand. But it simply can not be done.

As far as silver is concerned, many competent authorities recently have expressed the view that if this commodity were stabilized, and the purchasing power of nearly 800,000,000 Asiatic peoples restored, a large part of the world's present economic ills soon would disappear. This is the opinion of many Canadian economists, and a prominent director of the Bank of England said the other day that Canada could render a great service by introducing this problem at the forthcoming Imperial Economic Conference. In a radio speech on Sunday, incidentally, Senator Borah, attacking the gold standard policy as applied to India, with its consequent depreciation of the price of silver, made the following observations:

Thus, not only were the poverty and the unfortunate economic conditions of these people greatly accentuated, but by reason of their reduced ability to buy in the markets of the world, the economic conditions in other countries were greatly affected. It added undoubtedly to the world economic unrest, and in no small degree. Here, it would seem, therefore, is one place where governments could greatly aid to the purchasing power of millions of people by undoing what was imprudently done. It would not be entering upon new lines or venturing upon a new experiment, it would be conforming to the wishes and custom and practices of these people.

Mr. Borah added that these hundreds of millions of people had been using silver for more than 2,000 years, and still would be using it if it were not for government interference. He does not understand why governments are delaying in dealing with it, unless it is that as well as the reduced purchasing power of men, initiative and leadership of men seems similarly to have declined. But if sufficient emphasis is laid on the demand for action, perhaps the nations will move.

HATS OFF TO WINNIPEG!

IN SPEECHES BEFORE SERVICE CLUBS in this city Sir Hugh Robertson and Mr. H. Plunkett Greene, adjudicators at the recent musical festival here, described the festival in Winnipeg as the "largest and best" event of its kind in the British Empire. It is hard to conceive of a higher tribute than this to the people of the prairie capital, who would be justified in throwing out their chests and circulating the compliment paid to them by these eminent authorities to the four corners of the earth.

We know of nothing which could more effectively shatter some of the illusions held in many quarters on this continent, even in many places in Canada, regarding the prairie metropolis. In the minds of the uninitiated Winnipeg is synonymous with wheat; the mention of its name conjures up visions of elevators, flour mills, grain exchanges, box cars, with all of its several hundreds of thousands of people thinking of nothing but market quotations, the next crop, rust, weather conditions and the many other circumstances inseparable from its situation as the centre and chief distributing point of Canada's vast western empire of agriculture.

To those who hold these impressions of Winnipeg the announcement from high authority that its musical festival is the largest and best in the British Empire must be something almost in the nature of a shock. It is arresting evidence that not merely has cultural progress kept pace with material advancement in the prairie capital, but has actually outstripped it, for there was no reservation based upon relativity in the comment by Sir Hugh Robertson and Mr. Plunkett Greene. It shows, too, a fine sense of public duty on the part of the large music-loving element of Winnipeg, who obviously must regard the festival as an important community affair as well as a stimulus and diversion for the competitors.

from the character of its musical festival should be a source of pride to the whole of Canada, while its special significance is not likely to be lost upon those who feel that the permanent greatness of this Dominion can not be assured by material factors alone, but in the long run will depend most of all upon the cultural progress of the Canadian people. If music is the "flower of the spirit," as Sir Hugh Robertson says it is, the spirit of Winnipeg, against the background of its musical festival, burns brightly indeed.

TROUBLE IN SPAIN

SPAIN EVIDENTLY IS REALIZING that its troubles have not ended with the exchange of a monarchy for a republic, and the Zamora government will have to proceed very cautiously if it is to succeed in holding exuberant spirits in check under the new dispensation. The disorder which has disturbed the comparative calm of the capital during the week-end is a reminder that this revolution, like other historical revolutions, is following a more or less normal course.

In France and in Russia the outbreaks began in a small way. An insignificant mob was sufficient to kindle the flame; but once the fire started, it spread rapidly and finally attacked everything symbolical of the old order. In revolutions of this kind the government is assailed first, and then the church is attacked because of its association in the public mind with the government. Spain, therefore, is running true to form. It matters not that the national church of Spain is the Roman Catholic—it would be the same if it were any other church—that within the Peninsula, apart from Portugal, there are nine metropolitan sees and sixty-one suffragan sees, or that other religious bodies have little or no influence. For the purpose of the mob in Spain at the moment, the church is a remnant of the old regime—and is considered legitimate game.

It is hardly fair, of course, to suppose that the action of the few reflects the desire of the majority in Spain. But that is beside the question. It does not require a very large number of people to cause untold trouble when such a minority chooses to throw restraint to the four winds. While this does not mean that the Zamora government at Madrid will be powerless to quell the outbreak in time, there will be many anxious days in Spain before the country will be able to make ordered progress.

WHY DID IT NOT INQUIRE?

AFTER IT HAD REALIZED ITS FOLLY in imposing its six-cent duty on United States potatoes, thus sounding the death-knell of an important seed-potato export business in the Maritime Provinces, there was nothing left for the government to do but to take it off as quickly as possible. Had it been allowed to remain in effect, a daily flow of between fifty and fifty-five car loads of potatoes from Canada into the neighboring republic would have been stopped—to shut out about three car loads of American potatoes for a month or so!

But the point which the government ought to explain to the people of Canada—and particularly to the potato growers of the Maritime Provinces—is why it imposed this virtual embargo at all without first of all making a proper inquiry into the effect it would have upon the Canadian export potato trade. Surely the Minister of Agriculture, at least, should know to what extent the potato growers of New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island depend upon the United States market. Does he not know that, in addition to the heavy shipments by rail, boats leave almost daily from Halifax and St. John with cargoes of this commodity consigned to Boston and New York?

This is a serious aspect of the situation which confronts numerous Canadian industries that substantially rely for their subsistence upon the export market. If the government proposes to follow the policy it followed in the case of glass and potatoes, for instance, certain producers for export will not know where they stand from one day to another. Our trade has declined enough already in the last few months without special measures to cause its contraction still further.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE
The Calgary Herald

State unemployment insurance on any basis should not be necessary in a country whose natural resources are largely undeveloped. It would be a reflection on the enterprise of the Canadian people and a confession of ineptitude on the part of our statesmen if an expedient necessary only in old and overpopulated countries has to be adopted here to deal with unemployment. In a huge country, one of the largest of the globe, it should not be impossible to provide work for a population still slightly under ten millions.

DEPORTATIONS
The Boston Christian Science Monitor

What happens to the deportee when he arrives at his home port is too often nobody's business except his own. His home country may not even have had notice that he is coming, except what happens to be a criminal. Unless he has received a few dollars by the charity of passengers on his ship he usually lands destitute, with nowhere to go—a social outcast. In such circumstances there is too much impulsion toward a career of crime. International action is needed to correct this state of affairs. These repatriates should always be consigned to some recognized authority who will see that they have an opportunity to get a start in the country to which they have returned.

CHARITY VS. JOBS
The New York World-Telegram

Charity to relieve suffering is good. But charity is at best only a palliative. Charity may have to go on indefinitely unless we adopt constructive measures to provide jobs, instead of merely trying to feed and clothe the jobless. Charity will not restore confidence. Charity will not get us back on the road to sound prosperity. Face the fact: All over the country the first big efforts to relieve unemployment are petering out. Funds are running low. Private philanthropy finds it harder and harder to keep pace with the need. Industry may profess to believe "the worst is over," but industry is not acting on that belief to the extent of putting men back to work in numbers that promise the end of unemployment. The strain is still there, and the props are weakening. Something like a new unemployment crisis impends.

Sad news from Ottawa—Worse news from the centres of progress—Colder news about our governments—Any the best news of all about our own Canadian race.

By H. B. W.

THE RECENT news from Ottawa must have wrung every true Canadian heart. I mean the news that cabinet ministers of the federal government have been deprived of their limousines. But it is some comfort to think that, walking up Parliament Hill two or three times a day, the statesmen of our generation have some of that grit for which they are noted and regain a little of the athletic appearance which distinguished Canadian politicians in the times of Confederation and indeed, until the arrival of the automobile. It is also comforting to note that while they have lost their limousines, cabinet ministers have been allowed $2,000 a year for taxi fare, which makes me rather fear that the return of the athletic statesman is not so imminent as I had hoped at first. A man can travel far on $2,000 without disturbing his grit, and yet in these difficult times, the true patriot will follow the advice of that loyal gentleman who rendered up the last full measure of devotion:

Said a canny old statesman called Jack: "At duty you'll ne'er see me back. Conditions are grave. The country they have lost their egg crates nailed together. I have no doubt this will be the house of the future, people being what they are. I have no doubt either that any sane man would quickly go mad if he had to live in and look at such a creation every day of his life. That's never, will be quite convenient and comfortable, for only a generation totally mad could endure it. But meanwhile, before this ultimate perfection has been achieved out in these pioneer regions, it is interesting to note the change in house architecture in the last few years. It is interesting to drive about the newer residential districts of Victoria these days (when, despite the depression, building seems extraordinarily active) and compare the newer houses with those of the older districts.

A PHOTOGRAPH in this newspaper and the other day showed the glass-and-metal house of the future, a hideous creation which looks like five egg crates nailed together. I have no doubt this will be the house of the future, people being what they are. I have no doubt either that any sane man would quickly go mad if he had to live in and look at such a creation every day of his life. That's never, will be quite convenient and comfortable, for only a generation totally mad could endure it. But meanwhile, before this ultimate perfection has been achieved out in these pioneer regions, it is interesting to note the change in house architecture in the last few years. It is interesting to drive about the newer residential districts of Victoria these days (when, despite the depression, building seems extraordinarily active) and compare the newer houses with those of the older districts.

SO FAR AS I can see, the comparison is all in favor of the newer ones, whatever sentimentalists and early Victorians may think. The newer houses show clearly that the early Victorian architecture with its gingerbread towers and bulging square shapes, fretwork and harking square shapes, was a grisly thing at best, the offspring of the age of side-whiskers, horsehair furniture, fringes along the mantelpiece and moustache cups.

BESIDE SUCH houses the simplicity and neat lines of the newer houses are a relief to tired eyes, but one wonders what they will look like twenty years hence. Will they appear as old-fashioned and distorted as the early Victorian houses do now? I have a feeling that, despite the introduction of the metal-and-glass house, the architecture of the egg crate, the present-day house will remain satisfactory to look upon and for a simple reason. They are modeled for the most part after authentic forms of architecture, which were developed centuries ago in England in the times of the Tudors. They have a tradition behind them, a tradition which has survived for our centuries and should be good for a while yet, whereas the house designs of forty and fifty years ago were ghastly in their originality. They had no tradition, no ancestry, and, happily, they seem to have no posterity. We have not developed them or improved them. We have turned away from them completely for an older school. Let us enjoy while we may before the age of metal and glass and egg crates engulfs us all.

SENATOR BORAH has been digging up some figures to show that there is one employee of the United States government or state government for every ten ordinary wage-earners, and the number of government employees per capita is growing all the time. No figure is available for Canada at the moment, but I dare say the proportionate figures are about the same, and even if they are as large, they soon will be at the present rate of growth. I look to this country to improve on the record of the United States if it is just given a little time. I am confident that in Canada we shall arrive at the stage where there will be ten government employees for every wage earner. Should we have to progress in government as we have been doing lately? It is possible to prove by mathematics that in 225 years and six months and three days, there will be only one wage earner in the country supporting the remainder of the population, all of whom will be government employees. After that single wage earner dies I am not sure exactly what will happen. I suppose the entire population will have to go back to work at once.

HERE IS another Canadian odyssey: the big-belt of bridge in the United States. A Canadian has "solved the hardest bridge problem ever published." It is too bad that the name of the great Canadian is not revealed, and that he must remain the "unknown bridge player." But even though he is anonymous, no other nation can rob us of his glory. Canadians built the first bridge to cross the Atlantic. They built the C.P.R. and invented the telephone and discovered insulin. And now in our generation a Canadian solves the hardest bridge problem ever published. Here is an answer, indeed, to the pessimists and croakers. Here is proof that the pioneer fibre of our race endures as firm as ever. Moreover, Mr. Culbertson assures the world that Canada is taking up contract bridge more avidly than any other country in the world. You can't keep such a people down.

CHOIR COMPETITION

To the Editor—I attended the senior choir choir competition of the Musical Festival on Friday evening and was surprised at a very high opinion expressed in public by the adjudicator.

He gave the shield to the first choir, "a large and so he said" rather too noisy aggregation of lusty singers. The audience very evidently favored the second choir and its performance, and so did I because of its sweetness, fine control, and conscientious attention to faithfully follow the allotted music, to sing it just as it was written.

The crowd is "sometimes wrong" in its judgment when it comes to questions of art, and so I am not at all much interested in the criticism and opinion of the expert. I was amazed to hear him approve the first choir because it had, so he said, more or less disregarded the (probably) even marks of expression in the music of the first test piece, and criticized the second choir because of its serious and substantially successful attempt to reproduce the music just as it was written by the composer.

There is here a most radical departure from the usual practice of a departure that seems very hard to approve on the principles of fair play. The two choirs had the same test piece. It is an admirable piece of music I admit, but there it is and the test must surely be based, first and always, on the ability of the conductor to hold his choir true to the musical composition, as it is given him, in all details. This is a necessary principle to be observed by all choirs before a fair comparison can be made. How is it defensible, on the grounds of common equity, with this accepted axiom of faithfulness to the test piece, to deduct marks from a choir that holds faithfully to the music, even at the expense of good effect, and to give marks to the other choir which, as the adjudicator said, had largely disregarded the most difficult marks of expression?

Opinions may differ widely about musical effect, but surely there should be no difference about the well-understood "rules of the game." If you break these rules, wittingly or unwittingly, you can't honorably win, no matter how strong you go afterwards on the advantage. You may be out of plumb in this matter, but I'd like some expert to correct me, and many others with me.

"A LISTENER."

A NICKEL A DAY
To the Editor—Mr. Mackenzie has been so much touched by Mr. Jones's plaint that he wasn't getting enough salary, that he has put up a thinking cap (made in B.C.) and arrived at a brand new solution of all our troubles. An egg a day, an apple a day, a cent a day, have all taken a back seat to his "Nickel a Day." He says that if all spend a nickel a day more than usual on a daily purchase of British Columbia goods, we shall find daily work for 9,000 unemployed. So that's that! Why stop at 5 cents? Why not make it 25 cents and solve the unemployment question for all time, or better still, make it 50 cents, so that we can pay Mr. Jones the $50,000 a year he says he earns, instead of the measly $10,000 which he doesn't?

Far be it from me to discourage British Columbia industry, but if his solution is correct and 5 cents spent on British Columbia goods will give employment to 9,000 men here, it is logical to assume that another 9,000 will be unemployed in the place where we have 5 cents worth of goods was produced before?

And although I am very willing to admit that British Columbia under a new government has a far greater chance of being supported than any other place, isn't it an awful fact that the United States has been giving his theory a workout since the war and now have something like 6,000,000 unemployed as a direct result?

I can quite see from a government point of view it is an excellent suggestion, with a glowing endorsement. But the fly in the ointment is that increased salaries, increased staffs, increased taxes and a sadly needed increase of votes at the next election, will have long gone the way of all flesh. And Mr. Minister of Labour without us are struggling along on our $7,500 with a British Columbia hat and tie, the same old story. You say you man who hasn't a cent to his name, hard put to it to get a hat of any sort and a collar and tie, whether made in British Columbia or elsewhere, are not an every-day equipment of his apparel.

The only real solution to the problem for British Columbia is for the government to stop its interference in industry altogether—to clear the line for private enterprise to go ahead, and stop its parasite inspectors and officials, until the million of red tape which hamper all its efforts and reduce all its energies to the co-operation of labor and capital which is the true function of government. Set a good example by reducing its own salaries and drastically abolish all the hundreds of jobs created by the party supporters, and realize that the definition of the word minister is "servant." Get rid of the idea that they were selected by Divine Providence to force their ideas on a unwilling populace and remember that they were elected by that same populace to represent their interests. That's the truth—the blunt truth—without any rhetorical embellishments.

And when Mr. Mackenzie states that if the 600,000 souls in British Columbia all spent 5 cents each a day in British Columbia goods, it is counting babies in arms, preceptors in jails and every mother's son of us, it is a mathematical calculation which is the truth—except that it is not. No, sir, our present government could not buy their hats in British Columbia—they don't make them large enough!

CIVIC APPOINTMENT, ASSISTANT CITY CLERK
To the Editor—In your report of the council meeting of Monday you refer to myself as "John Day, secretary of the Ratepayers' Association." For the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Victoria.

Gentlemen:
I listened with patience to the reading of my letters at your last meeting, and from this I gathered that all that could be done was to receive and file same, and of this I was so informed by letter.

In searching through the Municipal Act and By-laws, made to govern this city, I find a by-law 2417, Civic Service Committee, relating to appointments, passed January 20, 1928, signed W. Marchant, acting mayor, and W. F. Hunter, city clerk to the council.

I would like to ask your honorable body if this by-law is still in existence, if not at what date was it repealed?

If this by-law is still in force I cannot find in the Municipal Act any power given to the mayor and aldermen or any officer or servant of the city where they are in any way required to give public notice at least seven days in advance of all tests in local papers.

(6) The Civic Service Committee shall give public notice at least seven days in advance of all tests in local papers.

(7) The Civic Service Committee shall appoint, and such appointments shall be effective.

Finally passed January 30, 1928.

W. Marchant, Acting Mayor.

W. F. Hunter, City Clerk to the Council.

These sections are to me very exacting.

Henry Stude of Chicago, president of the American Bakers' Association, told members of the New York Retail Bakers' Association at their annual convention here to-day.

Mr. Stude recommended that the bakers ask President Hoover to appoint a woman member of the Federal Farm Board to represent the feminine consumer.

"The foibles of Uncle Sam's daughters are costing our farmers at least $500,000,000 a year," Mr. Stude said. "They have abandoned comfortable cotton for sheer chiffon and whole-some wheat for dangerous diets. Cotton is the cheapest clothing. Wheat is the cheapest food. An increased use of both would help our pocket-book, our health and our government."

WOMEN MP'S OF LITTLE USE

They Only Espouse Popular Causes, Alleges British Teacher

London, May 12.—Women members of the House of Commons are of very little use because they only espouse popular causes, complains Miss Walsh, secretary of the National Union of School Teachers.

The union is protesting to the government against the employment of any teachers who are not fully qualified. But as a result of investigations by Miss Walsh the union is not forwarding its protest to any of the women members of parliament.

There were sixty-eight women candidates in the last general elections, and fourteen were returned to the House of Commons.

YOUR BABY and MINE

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

ACID RANGE JUICE MAY BE PARTIALLY NEUTRALIZED

Must all children have orange juice? If the baby dislikes it and spits it out, how may one manage to make him take it? If the orange is rather sour, may soda be added? Mothers frequently ask me these questions.

Orange juice is imperative in the diet of the bottle baby. It furnishes the vitamin C element which is partially or entirely destroyed when milk is pasteurized or boiled, and is absent in the canned milk. Orange juice is not imperative in the nursing baby's diet for the first two months, but after that it is an extremely desirable addition. It contains not only vitamins but minerals which are valuable aids to a balanced diet.

MAKE FIRST DOSE SMALL

One reason why the small baby makes a wry face and spits out his orange juice is because his mother insists that he take all he will ever need the very first time. Instead of one small spoonful in enough water to mask the new taste, she conscientiously gives him one or two ounces of juice and expects that he will receive it with gusto.

Most babies dislike new tastes. They are not yet epicureans on the hunt for new flavors. They like their nice, warm, bland, sweet milk, viewing anything different with suspicion and instantly rejecting it. The wary mother keeps this in mind, making the first taste of orange juice hardly different from his drink of water, then little by little increasing the amount of orange juice until baby is fairly lapping it up.

"I noticed a discussion of orange juice in your department and wanted to tell you how I managed it," Mrs. C. C. contributes. "I added a pinch of baking soda to two tablespoons of orange juice mixed with two tablespoons of water. Until I learned this wrinkle I had a bad half hour each morning. I hope you will pardon my seeming presumption in offering this, but I have gleaned so much from your column that I thought I might repay it in part."

PARTIAL NEUTRALIZATION SAFE

I am happy to have your suggestion. My only fear in printing this very valuable contribution is that mothers may overdo that "pinch." There is some danger in that.

After all, we give orange juice for a purpose, and that purpose is to furnish the baby with this additional vitamin C. That is the chief role played by orange juice in the diet, its contribution of minerals being a secondary part. It is believed that complete neutralization of the acid of orange juice would have a detrimental effect on the vitamin. "Vitamins are comparatively stable in an acid medium, but less so as the neutralization point is reached." It is safe, though, to partially neutralize the acid, and to feed the orange juice immediately after adding the soda. At the moment, my morning orange juice is so deliciously sweet that I doubt if the veriest amateur orange juice drinker could object to it.

LABOR WOMEN ON MANY PROBLEMS

Western Conference Discuss Birth Control, the Lash, Public Health Insurance

Saskatoon, May 13.—Birth control, public health insurance, pensions for the blind, child training, the lash as punishment for crime and revision of the British North America Act, were subjects included in resolutions passed yesterday at the Western Labor Women's Social Conference, which ended a three-day session here.

Mrs. M. Alken of Winnipeg was elected president. Other officers named were: Vice-presidents, for Alberta, Mrs. D. Hunt of Calgary; for Saskatchewan, Mrs. M. Busby of Regina; Manitoba, Mrs. J. J. Singleton (in absentia, address unknown).

Representatives from Edmonton, where the labor women specialize in social service, related many incidents to show the need of revising present plans and making new regulations governing immigration, deportation, marriage and desertion.

PEACEFUL PARADES

Winnipeg delegates sponsored resolutions relating to education, peace and pensions. They were incensed over police interference with recent labor demonstrations in Winnipeg, and agitated for the privilege of peaceful parades for the unemployed.

Considerable time was spent discussing birth control, and it was resolved that this conference immediately petition the provincial governments of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta to establish birth control clinics in connection with hospitals, provided over by medical authorities, and also petition the federal government to alter the Criminal Code of Canada so that it may become legal to advise women dealing with family limitation to circulate through the mails, was endorsed.

After long discussion on sterilization of the unfit, a resolution brought by Manitoba delegates was tabled.

SAYS EINSTEIN WAS VICTIMIZED

Alleged Daughter of Moszkowski Imposed on Scientist in California; Story Denied

New York, May 12.—The Jewish telegraphic agency in a dispatch from Berlin says Mrs. Albert Einstein, wife of Prof. Albert Einstein, yesterday revealed that her distinguished husband had been the victim of a woman impostor while he was in California last winter.

On the strength of false letters a Mrs. Alla Moszkowski, for some time a resident of San Diego and who claimed to be the daughter of the late composer, Moritz Moszkowski, had interested the Einsteins in a proposed music school. She had even prevailed on the Einsteins to be photographed with her.

It was only on their return to Berlin the Einsteins learned they had been victimized. After some investigation, Mrs. Einstein learned from the Moszkowski family that the composer never had a daughter.

Kansas City, Mo., May 12.—Alla Moszkowski, forty-five, the mistress of an Alberta Ranch, who claims the title Countess de Ribadeo, denied to-day she had duped Dr. Albert Einstein as his guest in California last winter.

A Jewish telegraph agency dispatch from Berlin quoted Frau Einstein as saying they had been victimized by an impostor who posed as the daughter of Moritz Moszkowski, famous composer, and interested them in a proposed music school.

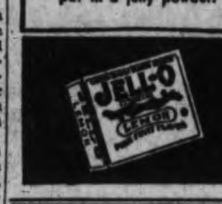

"I can't understand it," exclaimed the woman, who has appeared here recently as a concert pianist and the daughter of Moszkowski. "It is ridiculous. The Einsteins could not have done this."

REPUDIATION EXPLAINED

She denied she had proposed to the Einsteins the establishment of a music school and charged that repudiation of her by the Moszkowski family was due to her father's marriage to a gentle and her own marriage to the Spanish Count de Ribadeo, who died five years ago.

She said she was photographed with the German scientist, known for his interest in Jewish culture, when she went to him to learn of the death of her father in Paris in 1925. She said she had toured Russia at seventeen, before her marriage in Italy. Her husband's poor health, she said, had caused them to settle on a ranch in 1918.

PERSECUTION CLAIMED

The woman asserted Alexander Moszkowski, publisher and critic, whom she claimed as an uncle, had refused to aid her father in his last years and that the family now was "persecuting me."

"Mother was an artist," she said. "She was a Von Steuben, a descendant of General von Steuben, who fought with your General Washington. She sang in opera in Hungary. Father met her in Budapest."

The ranch woman said she had in storage in San Francisco "letters from my father which will prove our relationship beyond a doubt."

Riddell, M.A., will give an address on the "Evolution of Woman," under the auspices of the Women's Educational Auxiliary. Attractive musical numbers have also been arranged. VANCOUVER WOMEN WIN GOLF MATCH

Hunting-Cup Retained By Score of 7 to 5 at Colwood Links Yesterday

Mrs. Hutchings Defeats Mrs. Philbrick By 4 and 3 in Feature

By a score of seven matches to five, women players from the Shaughnessy Heights and Jericho golf clubs, Vancouver, won the Hunting-Cup for third straight year from representatives of the Colwood and Victoria golf clubs at Colwood yesterday afternoon. Ideal weather greeted the players in these twelve eighteen-hole matches, which serve as a preliminary to the British Columbia women's championship starting to-day.

Posession of the Hunting-Cup was in doubt till the tenth game was completed. Vancouver were leading 6 to 3, and when Mrs. G. Wismer, Shaughnessy, checked in with a victory over Mrs. A. Morkill, Colwood, the result was known, though Victoria players won the two concluding matches.

The two finest matches of the day were those between Mrs. Vera Hutchings, British Columbia champion, and Mrs. E. B. Philbrick, which the former won 4 and 3, and Mrs. Sayward-Wilson and Mrs. S. C. Sweeney, which the Victoria player won 3 and 2. Mrs. Hutchings started off by winning the first and fourth holes and was never headed. One up and six to play, she brought the match to a sudden end by winning three holes in a row. Mrs. Hutchings' eighteen-hole card was 81, two more than the record she set for the Colwood course.

The fixture between Mrs. Sayward-Wilson and Mrs. Sweeney was a battle of ex-British Columbia champions, with Mrs. Sayward-Wilson again proving her ability to finish strongly. The pair were all square at the turn, but the winner hugged far from then on and finished the match on the sixteenth.

NOTABLE VICTORY Another notable victory for a Victoria player was Mrs. New Patterson's defeat of Mrs. R. Gellatly. Mrs. J. Hutchinson and Mrs. Parry, however, were both beaten.

Competitors for to-day's qualifying round spent yesterday looking over the course and practicing. Miss Norah King, Vancouver, a recent arrival from England, showed fine golf and is expected to prove plenty of competition in the championship.

Mrs. Hutchings' fine card, which was two strokes worse than her record of 79 for the course, and Mrs. Philbrick's follow:

THE RESULTS Results of the Hunting-Cup match, with Vancouver players first mentioned, follow:

Mrs. Hutchings (Jericho), 1; Mrs. E. B. Philbrick (Victoria), 1; Mrs. G. Wismer (Jericho), 1; Mrs. Sayward-Wilson (Colwood), 1; Mrs. A. Morkill (Shaughnessy), 1.

TOWNSEND WINS COLORLESS BOUT FROM PORTILLO

Piles Up Big Point Margin in All But One Round in Vancouver Main Event

Vancouver, May 12.—Billy Townsend, local welterweight, scored one of the most unimpressive victories of his career when he outpointed Tony Portillo, of Seattle, over the ten-round route at the Arena here yesterday evening. In winning, Townsend was given the unanimous decision of the judges and the referee, but the verdict was greeted by a chorus of boos from the fans.

Townsend earned the decision at that, however, as Portillo had really only one good round, the third, when he walloped his opponent from side to side with a two-fisted attack. The rest of the time, Portillo was on the defensive, using a counter left jab and left hook to advantage in slowing up Townsend's tempestuous rushes.

Portillo absorbed a lot of punishment in the fifth and seventh rounds, but withered the storm each time. Townsend seemed unable to follow up any advantages he gained. Townsend weighed 144½, and Portillo 147½.

POSTON WINS Alan Poston, Vancouver bantam, scored a technical knockout over Chuck Carnera, of Tacoma, in the semi-final. Poston led throughout but Carnera displayed an awkward style and managed to hang on throughout. Carnera took a count of nine in the seventh, and was about out on his feet in the eighth when his seconds tossed a towel into the ring.

In the four-round preliminary, Art Fry, Vancouver, knocked out Jack Watson, Vancouver, in the third round, and Clarence Kennedy, Vancouver, took the decision from Don Kennedy, Vancouver.

PORTUGUESE CHAMP WINS Oakland, May 12.—Jose Santa, giant Portuguese, knocked out Johnny Grosso, the somewhat showman New York heavyweight, in the second round of their ten-round bout here yesterday evening.

Grosso was downed with a right to the jaw just after the round started, and while not knocked out, was too slow in getting to his feet. Santa, who claims the championship of Portugal, weighed 243 pounds, while Grosso weighed 204 pounds.

Des Moines, Iowa, May 12.—Bushy Graham, U.S.A., one of the leading featherweight fighters of the country, outpointed Hymie Wiseman, promising young Des Moines battler, in an eight-round bout here yesterday evening. After being on the verge of a knockout in the fourth round, Wiseman came back in the late rounds to carry the fight to his more experienced opponent.

Graham weighed 125, Wiseman 124.

St. Paul, Minn., May 12.—Chummy Stevens, 130, Tampa, knocked out Frankie Gonzales, 135, Mexico City, in the second of their ten-round fight here yesterday evening.

Philadelphia, May 12.—Harry Blittman, Philadelphia, won the decision over Young Joe Fizzo, 135, New York, in a six-round fight here yesterday evening. Blittman weighed 135, Fizzo 137.

Smart Hitting Gives Phillies 2 to 1 Win Over St. Louis Cards

Shotton Boys Change Style of Clouting From Last Year and Place Effective Hits to Humble National Leaders; Cards Now But One Game Ahead of Giants; Pirates Bat Out 4 to 2 Victory Over Robins; Senators Bury Detroit Under 14 to 4 Score in Lone American Fixture.

By GAYLE TALBOT Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer

Manager Burt Shotton has his Philadelphia Phillies using an entirely different system this season, and they are getting surprisingly good results.

Last year the Phils went in for bushels of hits, including doubles, triples and homers, but they didn't score in proportion. The result was that they led the National League in hitting and were a strong eighth in the final club standing.

This year, however, Shotton has his boys going a little differently. With such sluggers as Lefty O'Doul and Freeco Thompson gone, the 1931 Phils are not getting as many hits, but they are getting them where they count, leaving fewer men on bases and winning more ball games.

For instance, they collected only five hits yesterday, but they cut off the eight-game winning streak of the St. Louis Cardinals, 2 to 1. Chuck Klein hit his sixth homer of the year to tie the score in the sixth inning. Then big Buzz Arlett got on second and Les Mallon, rookie infielder, brought him in with a lousy double, that was all the Phils needed. Will Bill Hahn was the victim of the winners' concerted attack.

SENATORS SLAUGHTER DETROIT Only one American League tilt survived the epidemic of rain and cold. The Washington Senators burying Detroit under an avalanche of hits, 14 to 4. Omele Bluege led the eighth hit assault on four Tiger pitchers with a homer, double and two singles. Kukei had a double and two singles, and Joe Cronin a homer and a single. Fisher went the route for the Senators to score his third victory.

Four Fish on One Hook at Same Time Is Latest Story

Kinston, N.C., May 12.—A Hobgood, member of the Kinston Nature Society, says this fish story comes straight from a friend he never knew to distort a fact.

The friend was fishing for pickerel and caught a twenty-four-pound fish. Dressing it he discovered a two-pound chub inside. The chub was dressed in turn. It contained a perch weighing half a pound. Inside the perch was the minnow used for bait. Oh, well!

HOW A WOMAN LOST 17 LBS. FAT IN 4 WEEKS

Feels Better and Looks Better

She Gives Good Advice to All Fat Folk

Here's a letter that should be read by every overweight woman. When most women can lose fat and at the same time gain in energy and vigor. Gain in charm and vivaciousness. Gain a healthy complexion and have eyes that sparkle with buoyant health. And at insignificant cost— isn't it time to use common-sense?

Please read this letter carefully—
"Gentlemen,
"I first saw your advertisement in a local paper, and decided to try Kruschen Salts.
"I started taking them every morning as directed as I was very much overweight and wanted to reduce.
"I had tried going on a diet, but would get so hungry that my diet would not last long, so I decided to give 'Kruschen Salts' a fair trial. The day I started to take them I weighed 250 lbs., and at present, which has just been four weeks, I weigh 230 lbs. And I must say, I feel better in every way, besides looking much better.

"I have recommended Kruschen Salts to many of my friends; in fact, have a number of them taking Kruschen Salts.
"May all large people, both men and women, who want to reduce in an easy way, give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. Just try one bottle and by following directions, I am sure it will convince anyone. I bought my second bottle to-day."

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 45c. and 75c. per bottle. (Advt.)

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Adam and Fallen Man" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday.
One of the Scriptural texts contained in the lesson-sermon was, "Wherefore thou art no more a servant, but a son; and if a son, then an heir of God through Christ" (Galatians iv 7). Following the reading of the Bible text, passages were also read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, one passage being the following from page 557: "Divine Science rolls back the clouds of error with the light of Truth, and lifts the curtain on man as never born and as never dying, but as co-existent with his creator."

"NICKEL A DAY" MORE IS URGED

Hon. W. A. McKenzie Issues
Appeal to Aid Buy B.C.
Goods Campaign

Pointing out that "a nickel a day" spent in British Columbia will provide employment of 9,500 persons, Hon. W. A. McKenzie as Minister of Labor, has issued a statement to stimulate interest in the Buy British Columbia Goods Campaign.

The minister in his statement says in part:
"It was able to announce right now that an industry employing 8,000 or 9,000 persons, with an annual payroll of more than $5,000,000 would start immediate operations, it would be welcomed as an outstanding event, and a feeling of optimism."

"There are 600,000 persons in British Columbia. Daily purchases are made by, or on behalf of every individual. If the present preference to British Columbia products, in such buying, is extended by only 5 cents a day, employment will be provided in the established, and on the farms already established, for an additional 4,500 persons, and secondary employment for as many more."

WHAT NICKEL A DAY WILL DO
"The added 'nickel-a-day' preference would mean no less than $30,000 increased purchasing of British Columbia products, or approximately $10,000,000 yearly. Records show that 60 per cent of the retail price of a commodity represents labor. In other words, the 'nickel-a-day plan' would mean a distribution of $18,000 daily in wages, which at $4 per day would represent 4,500 workers given direct employment. In order to provide transportation, food, clothing and other services for 4,500 workers and their dependents another 4,500 persons would gain employment, thus adding 9,000 to the employed workers of British Columbia.

"Let me give but one illustration of the employment value of preferential buying. Take a tin of canned tomatoes. It is a British Columbia product employment is provided for: The grower, the picker, transportation to the fields to the cannery, workers in the cannery, workers in a British Columbia can factory, British Columbia printers of labels, British Columbia loggers and mill workers who provide the box in which the tin is packed, and workers in the wire nail factory where the nails for the box are manufactured. Then, on leaving the cannery, there is employment provided in transportation to the wholesale establishment, where warehousemen and clerks and salesmen participate. Then there is transportation to the retail store where further employment is provided until the ultimate sale is made to the consumer. This brief outline will indicate to you the volume of labor that goes into the production and sale of a commodity."

URGES ALL EMPLOYMENT HERE
Now, let us examine the difference in profitable employment if the purchaser does not stipulate that the product is British Columbia and takes an article produced outside of British Columbia. Then employment is provided elsewhere for the farmer, the truck driver, the cannery workers, the printers, the can makers, the loggers and millmen and the wire nail workers. Only the transportation employment to the wholesaler and the employment he and the retailer provides is given to British Columbia people.

"I realize that there must be trade interprovincially, and with foreign countries. I maintain that by increasing the preference to ourselves of our own goods we will benefit, and there will still be an ample margin for outside trade.
"Let us, one and all, remember when we do our daily purchasing to ask for the products of British Columbia, and if we can not obtain them readily, then insist on products of Canada. If we will do this, then we will be assisting ourselves and our neighbors towards better times."

ARCHIVES ADDS NOTABLE WORKS

Copies of Records and Journals of Famous Explorers Recently Secured

The Provincial Archives have recently received a number of copies of historic documents relating to explorations by early navigators in the waters of this coast. Among them are three volumes entitled "Original Voyage of Discovery to the North Pacific Ocean and Round the World Under the Command of Captain George Vancouver." The works bear marginal notes and criticisms, in pencil and ink, by George Gladman Hewett, ship's surgeon during the historic voyage.

From London the Archives has recently received copies of the following works:

Journal of Captain J. Cook, on H.M.S. Resolution, 1776-79, corrected from the work in the British Museum; Journal of George Gilbert, 1776-80, from original at British Museum; Charles Clarke's Log of the Resolution, from the Public Record Office, London; James Burrey's Journal of His Majesty's sloop the Discovery, in company with the Resolution, Captain Cook, February 10, 1776, to August 24, 1779, from original in Public Library, New South Wales; Lt. J. Rickman's Log of the Discovery, March 16, 1776, to November 29, 1779, from the original in the British Museum; J. A. Brown's Log of the Discovery, typed from original manuscript in the British Museum; Journal kept on board the armed tender Chatham during Captain Vancouver's voyage in the Discovery, 1781-84, from the original in the library of A. H. Turnbull, Wellington, New Zealand; and a typewritten copy, thought to be the journal of Edward Bell, clerk of the Chatham.

From a dealer in London has been secured the "Journal and Letterbook of H.M.S. Trincomalee, 1852-57," referring to the vessel that under Captain W. Houston played an important part on this coast. The work contains many interesting sidelights on navigation, the naval establishment at Esquimalt, and the Indians.

MEXICAN RECORDS
G. R. G. Conway, a former British Columbian, now in Mexico, presented the 27 volumes with transcripts from original documents dealing with the operations of the Spaniards in the North Pacific in 1775, and from 1790 to 1793. One transcript tells of the voyage of the frigate Santiago de la Nueva Galicia to this coast in 1775, while another has over 1,000 pages of valuable material relating to the period.

LOCAL DONATIONS
A dagger, one owned by Chief Maquinna, fabricated in 1803 by John Jewitt, master blacksmith of the ship Boston, when a captive of the Indians, has been presented to the Archives by a local collector.
The set of standard measures made for the Crown Colony of Vancouver Island has recently been completed by recovery of the pint and half-pint sizes. They were found during excavations on the site of the Empress Hotel.

MS. HEIAN MARU BROUGHT LARGE PASSENGER LIST

Party of Japanese Importers Aboard to Make Study of B.C. Salt Salmon Industry

Although the motorliners of the N.Y.K. line no longer call at Victoria local shipping men are still interested in their activities and hope that before long they will once again be frequent visitors at this port on their way to and from the Orient. The Heian Maru reached Vancouver yesterday morning from ports in China and Japan and today tied up in Seattle.

Harry Clarke of the local N.Y.K. office, has returned to Victoria after a visit to Vancouver to look after the Victoria business aboard the ship. He reports that the ship had a large list of passengers, including several well-known Japanese business men and a party of Japanese importers who came to British Columbia to investigate the salt salmon industry and to confer with the leaders of the industry in this section. Also aboard the ship was K. Uchiyama, new consul for Japan in Seattle, accompanied by Mrs. Uchiyama and family.

The Heian Maru passed by Victoria shortly after midnight and docked at Vancouver at 7 o'clock Monday morning. Capt. H. Kaneko, known at this port as commander of the liner Siberia Maru, was in charge of the Heian and reported a fine voyage across the Pacific. Immediately the ship docked, the discharge of the valuable cargo of raw silk was commenced and at 10:18 o'clock the silk train of eight cars was off on its journey to New York. There were about 600 tons, valued at $1,750,000 in the shipment.

The Japanese importers' party was headed by T. Kubota of Tokio, who pioneered the salt salmon export from this province to Japan a few years ago. Now he heads a company that buys large quantities from British Columbia. Last year he imported 14,000,000 pounds, in 1928, which was the banner year, about 23,500,000 pounds. None of the members of the party has ever been in British Columbia before, although they have dealt with merchants in Victoria and Vancouver for many years. They will spend about two weeks in Vancouver suggesting improvements on curing and packing and discussing other phases of the business. These men are the authorized representatives of Tokio in the Japan fishing and marketing conference, and are influential in the general fishing and importing world. From Vancouver they propose to journey south to Los Angeles, thence to Chicago, Washington and New York, returning home by way of San Francisco aboard the Japanese motorliner Asama Maru on June 24.

Dollar Liner Was Aground In Far East

Hongkong, May 12.—The Dollar liner President Cleveland, which is due at Victoria on Wednesday, was aground on Waglan Island, twenty-five miles east of here early yesterday, reached Hongkong yesterday evening.

Passengers said the ship was slowly picking her way toward Hongkong through a dense fog when she struck. Most of the passengers were asleep but a few were on the promenade deck. The force of the impact was barely perceptible.

The liner struck fast but the coming of high tide shortly thereafter enabled the ship to refloat herself. She anchored until the fog lifted. Two tugboats went from Hongkong to her assistance but were not needed.

Passengers said there had been no casualties. The only visible sign of the accident was the slightly tilted position of the bow at the water line. Divers examined the hull but had not determined the extent of damage to-night. The ship's officers said they expected to proceed on schedule. The President Cleveland is en route to San Francisco from Manila.

TWO DIE IN SHIP FIRE

Crew of Oil Tanker Had Stiff Fight at Sea With Flames Fanned By High Wind

New York, May 12.—The oil tanker Ruth Kellogg, her deck blackened by flames and two of her crew dead, docked at Bayonne, N.J., yesterday, with a story of fire and rescue at sea.

The two dead were Amado Sequenza, twenty-eight, boatwain's mate, and Antonio Diaz, twenty-three, who were the first to plunge into the flames in an effort to save the ship. They were buried at sea.

Under command of Capt. B. J. Green, the tanker put out from Texas City, Texas, on May 4 with a cargo of crude oil. Last Friday when she was off the Georgia coast the watch saw smoke coming from the forward hatch. The tanker was heading into the wind, so Capt. Green, hove to in order to fight the flames.

The hatch cover was removed and flames flared up half as high as the foremast. Sequenza and Diaz directed streams of water into the hold, but the breeze shifted and blew the flames upon them. Their clothing caught fire and they were severely burned, dying a few hours later. At this point the captain sent out an SOS.

The Standard Oil tanker John D. Archbold reached the flaming vessel three hours after the SOS started. The master then though he could save the ship.

After a ten-hour struggle the Kellogg's crew conquered the flames early Saturday.

ARCANUMS TO VISIT SEATTLE

Victoria will be well represented at the Grand Council session of the Royal Arcanum which convenes in Seattle May 15 for a two-day session at the Olympic Hotel. In addition to sending over Grand Lodge officers and delegates, Brothers Spence, Spence and Beckwith, Majestic Council of Victoria, will be represented by two strong teams of bowlers. The Victoria team will play Rainier Council of Seattle in the first of what is expected to be a series of inter-city fraternal matches.

At a well-attended meeting in the Elks Club lodge room yesterday evening, a committee was appointed to carry on the sporting activities of the order during the summer. Before the close of the council the members were entertained with a musical programme by Brothers Parks, Applegate, Armstrong, Faver and a reading from Brother Hollings.

DOLLAR WHEAT CERTAIN, SAYS CALGARY EDITOR

Remedial forces are at work that will rapidly restore dollar wheat, argues Charles W. Peterson in an article in The Financial Post, Toronto, this week. With this view many Canadians, observers of the world wheat situation, may disagree. But whether dollar wheat comes this year or not—and The Financial Post states that it neither endorses nor disagrees with the prediction—it is of great significance that a man of Mr. Peterson's experience and reputation should be able to make a convincing case for the economic solidity of wheat growing in Canada.

Mr. Peterson is publisher of The Farm and Ranch Review of Calgary and has a national reputation for his writings on agricultural subjects and for his sympathetic appreciation of the relations of western farming to eastern business.

Mr. Peterson says in part: "The price of wheat is, by and large, the barometer of prices of all other agricultural products. Hence, the controlling factors in Canadian business welfare and prosperity are, precisely, the world price of wheat and the yield of this cereal upon the broad acres of Canada's prairie section. "Within the past year, wheat prices have touched unprecedentedly low levels and there has been no substantial change in this disastrous situation recently."

"The sole cause of this disastrous situation is world over-production, resulting in large carry-overs of wheat from year to year, with the inevitable result of demoralizing prices."

"To all practical purposes the price of wheat is now temporarily pegged at an absolutely uneconomic figure, i.e., a figure which does not come anywhere near paying the actual bookkeeping production cost, taking into consideration the overhead of the farm, return on invested capital and a reasonable wage."

"Such, however, is a situation the western farmer has lived through, time and again, in past years. "This same situation now prevails in every part of the globe where wheat is produced and does not apply to Canada solely. It is a universal emergency. Such a situation necessarily calls within itself its own certain and speedy cure, namely, largely curtailed world acreage and production. "Ignoring entirely the lower purchasing power of money, we find that over the century the price of wheat at Liverpool has averaged $1.34 1/2 per bushel, which would mean exactly $1.14 at Port William, or the even $1 at average prairie landing points to the farmer. The price at this writing is little more than one-half of the average figure established over centuries of production and trading."

"In the long run, wheat prices have passed the even tenor of their ways. They have gone up to dizzy heights in times of stress and emergency, and descended into the depths when over-production, stimulated by spectacularly high prices, has caused the price of wheat from the body of agriculture, as it is doing now."

"But when everything is said and done, the outstanding fact remains that 200 years of continuous recorded wheat history, pegs the price at $1 a bushel on the Canadian prairie farm. "This is a substantial fact to tie to in our present stress. It is a safe guide for the future. It would be madness for western Canada to abandon wholesale, large-scale wheat growing and turn to other systems of farming overnight in sympathy with prevailing unsatisfactory wheat prices. Agriculturally, it is our main business. Furthermore, it is Canada's main business. The system of extensive agriculture on our prairies is without a doubt the most efficient the world ever saw."

"Western Canada, by virtue of survival of the fittest, will retain her present predominating position, and will also become an even larger factor in world wheat and at a profitable price."

"A reduction in world wheat area of 30,000,000 acres will, under normal conditions, give us dollar wheat in Canada. Even now, there is ample evidence of curtailed seeding everywhere. The United States Intensions to Plant report as of March 1, indicated a 24 per cent reduction in durum acreage and a 12 per cent reduction in the acreage of other spring wheat. Reports from Australia and Argentina mention the possibility of even larger reductions, all influenced by the prevalent low prices. Broomhall's of March 31 estimates the Australian acreage reduction at 30 per cent, or 5,500,000 acres. The Argentine Ministry of Agriculture states that the reduction in that country will amount to 15 or 20 per cent. The probable Canadian acreage for 1931 will be at least 2,000,000 acres below 1929."

"Dollar wheat this year is more than a possibility—it is almost a probability."

"The fantastic tariffs against wheat that several European countries have imposed were framed at a time when the Liverpool price had for years ranged somewhat above $1.00. The present effect of these measures is to double and treble the price of breadstuffs to the harassed domestic consumer. It is clear that, as a matter of practical politics, 200 and 300 per

Estelle Taylor Not Willing To Share Finances

San Francisco, May 12.—The Call-Bulletin yesterday published the purported details of the financial settlement reached by Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight boxing champion, and his wife, Estelle Taylor, who he plans to sue for divorce. Dempsey is in Reno, waiting for six weeks to elapse so he may file suit.

Miss Taylor, the newspaper says, has abandoned her original plan to file a counter suit in California because she has more money than her husband and "would have to split the amount with her husband." If she obtained divorce in this state, she will file suit in Nevada instead.

Included in the purported settlement are these:

Miss Taylor will receive a cash settlement of $50,000, a stake in the Los Vegas Boulevard in Los Angeles, his hotels, ranches and other properties.

"Air Dragons" of Long Ago

A girl who remembers an article I wrote a year ago about flying reptiles has asked me to write again on the same subject. I shall do so, since I can add a few additional facts to the main story.

Flying reptiles are also called "air dragons," a playful name.

While I was visiting the British Museum in London, I saw the imprint of one of the largest flying reptiles that ever lived. The imprint was made on mud which later hardened into rock. Thus was saved a "picture" for us to see. From wing-tip to wing-tip, the imprint measures twenty-two feet, which means that the reptile which left it had a larger wingspread than any bird living to-day.

We call those animals "flying reptiles" because they were on the order of reptiles and could not probably their motion through the air was as jerky as the flight of bats.

If you study the skeleton of a flying reptile, you see that each wing contains bones which may remind a person of finger bones; but the bone which should belong to the little finger is the longest of all! In some cases it measures from seven to nine feet in length!

Between the "little finger" and the body of the flying reptile was a membrane of reptiles and could not probably their motion through the air was as jerky as the flight of bats.

Many skeletons of flying reptiles have been found in Kansas. The skull bones sometimes measure more than thirty-five inches, showing that the larger members of the tribe had long heads. The bodies were not large, however, and the total weight of the largest flying reptile is believed to have been about twenty-five pounds.

Make sure of present interest rates

The Dominion of Canada offers you 4½%

Before the War interest yields on Canadian Government Securities ranged from 2.98% in 1901 to 3.56% in 1913. Since the War, interest rates have been falling and the difference between the returns before and after the War has been narrowing.

Immediate conversion of 1931, 1932, 1933 and 1934 Dominion of Canada Bonds is a safeguard against the possibility of still lower interest rates later on. The benefit of a 4½% return is available to investors who renew their holdings in the premier Canadian security by prompt conversion. The existing interest rates of 1931, 1932, 1933 and 1934 Dominion of Canada Bonds will be continued until their maturity. The Income Tax exemption privilege of 1931 and 1933 Dominion Bonds will also be maintained until their present maturity.

We have made convenient arrangements to complete the exchange for investors in accordance with the official terms of the Conversion Loan. The coupon below should be mailed immediately. SHORTS BEGIN TO SIZZLE AS BULL PRESSURE GROWS

Pressure against shorts increased in the grain markets to-day, with the result that bears began to show worried expressions. As the dry weather over the grain belt continued, the shorts began to sizzle slowly as the thermometer rose.

Rye shot up two cents to-day, wheat went up another one cent and corn another cent, catching privileges all along the line.

The Kansas City Star to-day printed a story from its Washington correspondent to the effect that announcement will be forthcoming in a day or two that the new wheat crop will be marketed in the normal way without attempts being made to take care of the surplus.

Forecast to-day shows Manitoba and Saskatchewan fair and warmer to-day and Wednesday; Alberta fair to-day and Wednesday and not quite so warm in northern districts.

Broomfield report to-day says France and Germany advices still indicate large requirements. Italy is believed to have already bought sufficient supplies, and the American wheat market in that country delays delivery but continues buying of strong wheat is expected.

WINNIPEG

By Logan and Bryan
Winnipeg, May 12.—Wheat—There was very little export business marked overnight and early cables were unresponsive to our advance yesterday. The local wheat market held very firm during the first part of the day with very little pressure in evidence. Late in the day some good buying by Chicago interests against sales of their own futures. At the same time New York interests took small amounts with indications that some export business was worked all of which enabled prices to work higher and on the extreme advance gains of ½ to one cent.

Sentiment is mostly friendly, but profit taking by longs checked further advance, the market getting up against the daily offers. There was no precipitation in western Canada the past twenty-four hours, and no moisture was promised in the weather forecast, but higher temperatures were anticipated.

The demand for cash wheat was quiet. Flour market continues quiet with just a slight improvement in the domestic demand. There will be a Canadian Government report this afternoon, estimating the winter killing, giving conditions of fall wheat and rye, and the progress of spring seeding. It is not likely that they will give any estimate of the reduction in wheat acreage, which is expected by the trade to be from five to ten per cent. Winnipeg futures closed ½ to ¾ higher.

Coarse Grains—The feature was the buying of rye by exporters against overnight sales, and it was stated that 1,250,000 bushels had been worked. There was very little doing in oats or barley.

Oats closed ¼ to ½ higher, barley ½ to ¾ higher and rye 1½ to 2½ higher.

Flax—This market was strong in sympathy with wheat closing prices were 3 cents to 1½ higher. Liverpool due ½ higher based on Winnipeg.

and final prices are around best of the day. Foreign news cables commented on unfavorable spring conditions in many countries and stocks abroad were said to be light, with the Orient buying Australian wheat freely.

Chairman Stone of Farm Board was quoted as saying about all of the 25,000,000 bushels wheat planned to be exported had been disposed of except some of the Durums stocks. He also stated that present holdings of government were now near 200,000,000.

Weather in Canada and our northwest was fair and much warmer.

The winter wheat reports continue extremely favorable. Export business light as a rule. World's available stocks decreased 2,933,000 bushels which was good decrease considering the large increase on passage. Minneapolis stocks decreased 100,000 bushels for three days.

The market is in position to respond to any unfavorable news, as bearish news is pretty well discounted and with present low prices think the advantage is with the buyer on the dip.

Corn scored a good advance after being lower for a time early, the market getting above the offers. Cash demand moderate with sales of 37,000 bushels, but the movement is light and little country selling.

Weather was better in the west and appears to be clearing up generally. Receipts here were thirty-one cars, primary arrivals 335,000 bushels against 371,000 bushels year ago, basis steady to ¼ off.

Conversion Loan Terms Explained

The Dominion of Canada 1931 Conversion Loan extends the opportunity to holders of Dominion of Canada War Loan and Victory Bonds now approaching maturity to convert their holdings into bonds extending over a further period of from fifteen to twenty-five years, and marks what may eventually prove to be the greatest financial operation in the history of Canada—the refunding of the heavy volume of financial obligations incurred during the war period.

The offer does not involve the raising of any new money. Not a penny will be added to the national debt of Canada in consequence of the 1931 conversion loan. It is entirely a matter of exchanging existing bonds for other bonds of the Dominion. A total of more than one billion dollars of bonds reaches maturity within the next three and a half years. This total is made up of about $52,500,000 War Loan 5 per cent bonds due October 1, 1931; $75,500,000 Renewal Loan 5½ per cent bonds due November 1, 1932; $446,500,000 Victory Loan 5½ per cent bonds due November 1, 1933; and $512,000,000 Victory Loan 5½ per cent bonds due November 1, 1934.

Holders of bonds of these issues are being given the opportunity of continuing their investment over a longer term in the direct obligations of the Dominion Government. They will not lose anything in the way of interest payments or income tax exemption by exchanging for the title of the 1931 Conversion Loan. It is explained that the new bonds will carry coupons entitling holders to receive up to the date of the maturity of their old bonds, the same interest payments and tax free privileges as they would enjoy if they held their War Loan or Victory Bonds until the date of maturity in each case. For the remainder of the term of the 1931 Conversion Loan Bonds, they will carry interest at the rate of 4½ per cent per annum, which, in the opinion of leading investment bankers, is a comparatively generous return in view of the interest rates now prevailing in the London and New York markets.

Conversion applications are now being invited up to a total of $250,000,000 of the new bonds.

DETAILS OF ISSUES
Holders of the War Loan 5 per cent Bonds maturing October, 1931, may exchange their bonds for Dominion of Canada 1931 Conversion Loan Bonds maturing November 1, 1936. The new bonds will not be subject to redemption before November 1, 1936, but from that date until maturity they may be called by the government on any interest date on sixty days' notice, at 100 and accrued interest. The first coupon on these bonds will be for six months' tax free interest at 5 per cent per annum, payable October 1, 1931; the second coupon will be for seven months' interest at 4½ per cent per annum, payable May 1, 1932. Nagging Wife Who Wonders Why Her Husband's Love Is Decreasing—Why Don't Men Treat Themselves as They Do Their Automobiles?

DEAR MISS DIX—Does a husband's love decrease and a wife's love increase after marriage? I am sure my husband is fond of me, but he is a changed man when we are with friends. In public he is horribly indifferent to me and scarcely shows me any attention at all. This annoys me so that my disposition is immediately affected and I become sulky and want to go home. My great weakness is nagging, but it is my hurt pride that makes me do it. Can you help me, Miss Dix? BUNNY.

ANSWER:

No one can help us overcome our faults. We have to do that by ourselves. We have to have the strength and courage to realize that we are doing a wrong and foolish thing and to quit doing it.

The trouble with us is that we are always expecting some miracle to be wrought from without that will pleasantly change us into what we should be without our having to make any sacrifice of our appetites or inclinations or the ways that are so dear to us. The drunkard thinks that something will happen that will keep him from having the thirst for drink. The lazy thinks that they will suddenly become energetic and love to work. The high-tempered woman thinks that she will be changed into a gentle, amiable creature that nothing will irritate or rile and the nagger thinks that she simply won't feel like getting after her husband and children about everything they do and don't do.

But none of these supernatural changes occur. The only reformation that ever takes place is self-made. When we tackle the job ourselves and have the grit to deny ourselves doing the thing we want to do, then we have a reform as is a reform.

There are two reasons why the nagger seldom reforms. One is because she never admits to herself that she is a nagger. And actually this is true because nagging becomes such a habit with many women that they do not know when they do it. It becomes as instinctive with them as breathing.

And the second reason is that they feel that they are justified by their motive. They nag those they love to death through affection and interest. It is because a woman's whole world is centered in her husband and children that makes her put them through the third degree every time they go out of the house and that makes her torment them with questions about everything they do and see and think and hear. And it is because she is solicitous about their welfare that makes her nag them about what they eat and putting on their rubbers and mauling up their throats and not getting their feet wet and looking out for automobiles when they cross the street.

There are plenty of homes in which no one ever eats a meal in peace because the wife and mother nags them about eating too much or too little or eating meat or putting salt on their food or conforming to some dietetic fad she has taken up. And there are plenty of boys and girls who leave home at the earliest possible moment to get away from mother's nagging and so as to be able to do one thing the way they want to do it. And plenty of husbands would desert devoted wives if they followed their inclinations just because they feel they will blow up and go violently insane if they have to listen to their wives' harping upon the same old string again.

So if you are a nagger, Bunny, I don't wonder that you notice a decrease in your husband's affection after marriage, because you have taken the surest and the quickest way to kill his love for you. There is no other crime under the sun that a man cannot forgive the woman he is married to more easily than that.

You may get as stout as the fat woman in the circus and he will never see it if you refrain from saying, "I told you so" after he has made a mistake or done something foolish. You may lose your looks and he will still think you as beautiful as a hour if you can say a thing once and let it go. You may buy imported hats and he will pay for them gladly if only you will forget things. And he will sit down cheerfully to a meal that would poison an ant if it is not garnished with reproaches and reminders and the thrashing over of old grievances.

So if you want your husband's love to increase, stop nagging and try being a cheerful, amiable, broad-minded companion.

As for your husband not showing you any demonstration of affection in public that is because he is a man of good taste. Billing and cooing is for the privacy of home. Husbands and wives who make a public display of their love are always under suspicion. Everybody thinks that they protest too much. DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—The census report shows that twice as many husbands as wives die. I wonder if husbands take as much care of themselves as they do of their automobiles. Most men will not go to a doctor until they are so sick that they have to stay in bed, but no man waits until his car is an utter wreck before he sends it to a garage. If a man hears a different sound in the running of his car he immediately tries to find out what is the matter with it, but men won't see that they need repairs and go to a doctor until often it is too late to do them any good. We wives are always telling our husbands this, but they won't listen to us. Maybe they will to you. E. R.

ANSWER:

No, they won't, because every man thinks all men mortal but himself. He can see that Jones has got a nasty cough and that that he should do something about it, but he is sure that if he neglects himself he will get along fine.

And that is why we are shocked to read in the paper some morning that such-and-such a fine middle-aged man has dropped dead with heart disease or passed away with pneumonia or isn't expected to recover from Bright's disease or is slowly perishing of diabetes.

Why intelligent men do this way nobody knows. Whether they have a childish fear of the doctor and what he may tell them or whether they don't want to take medicine or can't bear to think of having any of their personal habits interfered with nobody knows, but it is a fact that when a man does consult his physician, unless he is sick in bed and worse scared of death than he is of the doctor, nine times out of ten it is because his wife has simply driven him into doing so.

And yet every man knows that there are many diseases that, taken in their incipency, can be cured that are fatal if allowed to run on, and that the best way to preserve his body is just the same as it is with his house or his automobile, keeping it repaired. Patching up the places that are giving way. Watching out for the breaks.

There wouldn't be half so many widows if men treated themselves as well as they treat their automobiles. DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am seventeen, good-looking and out for a lot of fun. I smoke, drink and do everything the modern girls do. Do you think by acting this way and going round to public dance halls and such places that I am ruining my chances of getting a good husband in the future? I don't intend to keep this life up, but want to have all the fun I can while I am young. BLONDIE.

ANSWER:

Figure it out for yourself, Blondie. If you were a fine, clean, ambitious young man who meant to make something of his life and to be somebody in the world, would you pick out a girl who is damaged goods for a wife? Would you want to marry a girl who had been manhandled by every Tom, Dick and Harry, whose lips a hundred men had kissed, who got drunk and who was one of the cheap flappers that any man can pick up at a public dance hall?

Or would you select for your wife a nice, sweet, clean, modest girl who wouldn't have any past that her husband would have to forgive and try to forget? Which do you think a man would be more likely to select to wear on his breast, a pure white lily, or one that had been dragged through the filth of the street? You say you want to have a good time while you are young, but don't pay too high a price for it. Sometimes a girl buys a few wild parties at the cost of a whole life's happiness.

DOROTHY DIX.

ASK MEETING OF MAYORS ON UNEMPLOYMENT

Victoria Supports Vancouver Proposal For Solution of Serious Problem

Workless Attend Council Meeting in Orderly Body as Mute Protest

Seeking combined action of municipalities and the Federal Government in solution of the unemployment problem, the Victoria City Council yesterday afternoon passed a resolution supporting the request of Vancouver's mayor for a conference of western Canada mayors on the question. This action was taken on the motion of Alderman R. A. C. Dewar following consideration of a resolution from the unemployed, passed at a meeting on May Day, charging the City Council and Provincial Government had not administered relief monies in a proper manner and declaring them to be "active enemies of the working class."

The council chamber was filled by a delegation of unemployed who were ordered to silence after applauding one or two speakers.

FEDERAL PROBLEM
Alderman Dewar supported Alderman R. T. Williams in his contention that adequate provision had not been made for the unemployed, but maintained the problem was a federal one and could not be handled properly by the municipal councils.

"This council has done everything it can and is willing now to do as much as is in its power to help those out of work," said Alderman Alex Sedon. "We realize just how serious is the situation. But the council is between the devil and the deep sea. As soon as we start to spend money to help the unemployed the taxpayers cry about the increased rates."

GIVE MORE WORK
Alderman J. L. Mara, public works committee chairman, told the council that the committee had just decided to put on additional twenty-five single men and a further twenty-five married men to work on relief jobs now in progress.

Alderman H. O. Litchfield, in speaking to the subject, suggested that the unemployed be asked to state specifically where the council had failed in its duty.

DEPORTATION TIME LIMIT IS NOW ADVOCATED

Woodsworth Bill to Amend Immigration Act Brought Before Commons

Ottawa, May 12.—An amendment to the Immigration Act sponsored by J. S. Woodsworth, Labor, Winnipeg North Centre, was given first reading in the Commons yesterday afternoon. Explaining the purpose of the bill, Mr. Woodsworth said that as the Immigration Act stood at present it was possible to deport people from Canada for many causes. Last year a case had been dealt with of a woman who had lived for eighteen years in this country. He proposed in his amendment that there should be no deportation of prisoners who had lived for ten years in Canada.

Another clause related to those who, having resided in this country for a certain period of years, had been forced to go to the United States for work temporarily. The amendment would permit them to return to Canada.

Mr. Woodsworth's amendment reads: "Notwithstanding anything in this act or any amendment thereof or regulations made thereunder, an immigrant who has completed ten years continuous residence in Canada, shall not thereafter be liable to deportation, and no immigrant who has resided in Canada for a continuous period of ten years and thereafter voluntarily leaves Canada to reside elsewhere on the continent of North America for the purpose of seeking employment or engaging in any occupation and who desires to return to Canada, shall be refused re-entry into Canada by reason of such absence."

Col. Pepler Returns From Ottawa Appeals

Col. Eric Pepler, solicitor for the Attorney-General's department, has returned from Ottawa, where he represented B.C. before the Supreme Court of Canada in the suit, claiming $3,922 income tax from the B.C. Fir and Cedar Lumber Company, which B.C. won in the Supreme and Appeal Courts here, but which was appealed. Judgment was reserved at Ottawa.

In another appeal, Ottawa against Grand, the province supported the action taken by the Prince George sheriff, when a seizure was made in civil proceedings in which right of action was later contested. Judgment in this case was also reserved.

DOUKHOBORS TO DEBATE PEACE

Pooley Threatens Severe Measures; Verigin Meets Sons of Freedom Friday

The Doukhobors in British Columbia have been served by Hon. R. M. Pooley, acting Premier, with an official warning that stern measures will be taken by the Provincial Government to "curb disturbances."

Peter Verigin, leader of the Christian Community of the Universal Brotherhood, has been notified by Mr. Pooley that the government could make no distinction between members of his community and the Sons of Freedom. If either sect broke the laws of the land.

As a result of the warning, a conference between the communal Doukhobors and the Sons of Freedom has been called by Mr. Verigin for Friday afternoon at Thirum, when efforts will be made to terminate the dissension between the sects. An invitation has been extended to prominent citizens of Nelson and to British farmers of the district, to witness the extent of the concessions the Universal Brotherhood will offer to attain peace within the Doukhobor settlement.

Assistant Commissioner W. R. Dunwoody, of the Provincial Police, held a number of conferences with Mr. Verigin at Brilliant over the week-end. The Doukhobor leader expressed great anxiety to attain restoration of amity between the Brotherhood and the Sons of Freedom.

GO AHEAD WITH BY-LAW FOR AIRPORT

Preparation of By-law Authorized by City Council

Preparation of the Gordon Head airport by-law for submission to the ratepayers in the near future was authorized by the City Council yesterday afternoon when this task was placed in the hands of the industrial committee, the city solicitor, the comptroller and city engineer.

Alderman W. T. Strath, industrial committee chairman, who moved for the action, pointed out the scheme, if sanctioned by the ratepayers, would provide a lot of work for the unemployed since nearly $75,000 would be required for labor alone and this cost would be spread over twenty-five or thirty years instead of being a current expense as it would if laid out under the ordinary unemployment scheme.

An explanation was before the council from City Solicitor H. S. Pringle in reference to the Civil Service By-law alluded to by John Day, secretary of the Victoria Ratepayers' Association, recently, when he maintained a committee should be named to handle appointments. The solicitor pointed out that in any event, the council had the last word on appointments to positions.

The Victoria Playing Fields Association was granted the right to use city property bounded by Douglas, Belleville and Blanshard Streets on the May 24 week-end for concessions.

COMPLAINS ON LETTERS
Alderman H. O. Litchfield filed a complaint about letters sent to the council being handed to committees instead of directly to the council, but it was explained to him that the clerk had been given power to do this. The council voted $400 to the parks committee for use on the International Association of Parks Commissioners convention here next month.

Fire Chief Stewart was authorized to attend the fire chiefs' convention in Vancouver on May 27, 28 and 29. The first protest against proposed amendments to the health by-law to prohibit dairies in the city limits was received from solicitors on behalf of one dairy owner.

Loose DANDRUFF offends

How to get rid of it—quickly—pleasantly—inexpensively

LISTERINE, NOTED ANTISEPTIC, FOUND HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL

If your scalp itches or burns, if your hair is thinning or you are troubled with loose dandruff, begin using full strength Listerine, systematically, as an antiseptic shampoo. Simply douse it on and massage the scalp as vigorously as you can.

Literally tens of thousands have rid themselves of a dandruff condition with Listerine. They are simply amazed by the speed with which it gets results—often in cases where other, more complicated treatments had failed. One or two applications are frequently found sufficient.

What loose dandruff is

Loose dandruff is the visual evidence of a diseased or infectious condition of the scalp. It is most likely to manifest itself when the seasons change. Evidence seems to point that the condition is of germ origin. At any rate, the fat glands about the hair become over-active, throwing off a disgusting, greasy, whitish substance known as sebum. This forms in crusts and scales that betray you as a careless and unhealthy person.

Neglect is dangerous

The hair, meanwhile, seems literally to be stifled. It grows jagged, falling out. The scalp feels hot and itchy. If the condition is not treated promptly, eczema and baldness may follow, and usually do.

At the first symptom of trouble, the fight against loose dandruff should begin. Consider Listerine's effectiveness against this condition.

Why Listerine succeeds

If infection is present on the surface of the skin, Listerine attacks it. A powerful germicide, it kills bacteria in 15 seconds. The fastest killing time accurately recorded by science.

Listerine helps to dissolve oily crusts and quickly removes them, as well as horny scales. And Listerine quickly relieves that burning, itching sensation. It soothes inflamed or irritated areas of the scalp.

If scalp is dry

If scalp is excessively dry, a little olive oil may be used in connecting with the Listerine shampoo, or independent of it. The oil aids in dissolving crusts and scales and keeps hair from drying out. Get a bottle of Listerine tonight and try it if your scalp is troubling you.
